An important step in the struggle against the financing of terrorism from Europe: A German court upholds a government decision to outlaw the German office of the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation, used by Hamas as a front for fundraising.

Synopsis

The Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation, providing support almost exclusively to Hamas institutions in the Palestinian Authority administered territories, is numbered among Hamas' primary foundations in Europe. The foundation has offices in Germany (formerly the head office), Belgium (active to this day), Holland (outlawed in June 2003), and Denmark (active albeit on a limited scale).

Following lengthy legal proceedings, the German court upheld the government's decision and ordered (December 3) the foundation's German branch to cease its activities, effectively dismantling it. The court determined that the foundation provided support to and promoted Hamas' anti-Israeli terrorist attacks and that it was impossible to separate Hamas' social work from its operative-terrorist activities. This decision and its underlying reasoning set an important political and juridical precedent that might serve as a catalyst for other countries in Europe and elsewhere to act against similar Hamas-affiliated foundations that operate in their territories, thus putting to practice, for all intents and purposes, the EU decision (September 2003) to include Hamas and all its affiliates in the list of terrorist organizations.

The Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation and its various branches:

General characteristics

- The Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation served as one of the primary organs in Hamas' fundraising system in the West. It used to raise millions of dollars a year that were transferred mainly to Hamas institutions in the Palestinian Authority administered territories. In effect, the foundation's head office in Germany ceased its operations after it was first banned by the German

Interior Minister (August 2002). The Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation operates additional branches: the Belgium branch (active to this day), the Denmark branch (active on a limited scale), and the Holland branch (outlawed in June 2003).

The emblem of the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation's Holland branch (outlawed in June 2003)

The emblem of the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation's Belgium branch (active to this day)

- Documents seized in the Palestinian Authority administered territories testify that the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation in Germany and in the other countries provided assistance to the civilian infrastructure of the Hamas movement in the Palestinian Authority administered territories. What is more, the interrogation of Abd al-Hakim Muhammad Abd al-Fattah Abd al-Rahman, a Hamas operative from the village of Bir Naballah, shed light on an additional aspect of the ties between Hamas and the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation in Germany.
- During his interrogation (1993), Abd al-Rahman revealed that when he had decided to study in Germany and expressed his desire to join Hamas, he was instructed by Sheikh Jamil Abd al-Rahim Hamami, a senior Hamas operative in the Jerusalem area, to contact Mahmoud Amru, head of the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation in Germany, who was described by Sheikh Jamil Hamami as a senior Hamas figure in Germany, residing in Aachen.
- Upon arriving in Germany, Abd al-Rahman contacted Mahmoud Amru through the Islamic Center. He stated that during the course of his studies in Germany, Mahmoud Amru had indeed provided him with significant amounts of ideological materials and served as his contact with the Hamas leadership in Germany. He also assisted him with contacting Hamas elements in Jordan, instructed him on the course of action he should pursue and, to all intents and purposes, recruited him to Hamas. During his stay in Germany, Abd al-Rahman would deliver lectures on the ideology of the Hamas movement to Hamas recruits and supporters.

1. Also called "Charity Coalition" (in Arabic, l'tilaf al-Khayr). It is an umbrella organization for Hamas' foundations in the West and for Islamic foundations across the globe, established in the wake of the outbreak of the current violent confrontation between Israel and the Palestinians; it is headed by Qatari extremist preacher Sheikh Yusuf al-Qardawi.

- Formerly, all the offices of the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation were members of the Union of Good, a worldwide association of more than 50 Islamic foundations (some of them holding extremist views) that channel funds to Hamas institutions in the Palestinian Authority administered territories (hence it was declared an illegal organization in Israel). The German branch terminated its membership in the coalition; however, the other branches of the foundation in Belgium, Denmark and even in Holland still appeared (as at June 2004) on the list of the member foundations and associations<sup>2</sup>. The foundation is working in close cooperation with INTERPAL, a Hamas-affiliated organization operating in the UK (also a member of the Union of Good).

2. According to the Arabic version of the website (June 2004), even though the Holland branch is no longer active.

- A document seized in the offices of the Hamas-affiliated Jenin Charitable Society reveals that in a display of solidarity with the German branch, the Saudi WAMY foundation, also a member of the Union of Good, took the initiative of addressing Hamas institutions in the Palestinian Authority administered territories regarding the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation in Germany (see Appendix B). The address included a request to rush to the aid of the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation in its legal struggle against the German judicial authorities. To that end, it used a letter written by the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation's defense attorney which, as may be inferred, had been sent to WAMY (and, probably, to other foundations as well).

The status of the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation in Israel and in the US and its perception by the Palestinian Authority

- Due to its affiliation with Hamas, the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation was declared an “illegal organization” in Israel in 1997 and a “terrorist organization” in 1998. The foundation was also included (May 2003) in Mr. George W. Bush’s Presidential Decree no. 13224, ordering the freezing of the assets of persons and institutions involved in terrorism.
- In the view of the Palestinian Authority, the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation and all of its branches were perceived as one of the Hamas movement's funding sources: In a seized document (July 2000) of the Preventive Security, the German branch was mentioned in the list of foreign institutions that support the Hamas movement in the Palestinian Authority administered territories.

The transfer of NIS 86,116.19 by the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation to the Hamas-affiliated Ramallah-Al-Bireh Charitable Society (declared an illegal organization in Israel, 2002), through offices of the Arab Bank in Frankfurt and in Ramallah.

- The Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation, similarly to other foundations worldwide that raise funds for Hamas, uses the services of the Arab Bank as a preferred channel for transferring charity funds to the Palestinian Authority administered territories.
- This preference was well demonstrated in seized documents found in a file of documents detailing fund transfers that was captured in the offices of the Hamas-affiliated Ramallah-Al-Bireh Charitable Society. The said society is one of the leading institutions within Hamas' civilian infrastructure, being, according to a report made by the Palestinian General Intelligence, a money-laundering machine that channels foreign charity funds from abroad to the Hamas movement. A folder titled "Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation in Germany" within the aforementioned file contained documents detailing fund transfers to the Ramallah office of the Arab Bank via Arab Bank offices in Frankfurt and London.

The decision of the German court to terminate the activities of the foundation

- At the end of lengthy legal proceedings, the German Federal Administrative Court upheld the government's decision, ordered that the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation's activities be terminated and approved its dismantlement. Thus, the court revoked the provisional authorization given to the foundation in July 2003 to continue its activities under supervision.
- In its decision, the German court upheld the decision of the state and determined that the foundation assisted Hamas' terrorist activity against Israel and that it was impossible to separate Hamas' social work from its terrorist-operative activity (see the press release issued by the German court on December 3, 2004, in original and in translation, in Appendix A). Immediately following the court's decision, German police forces raided the foundation's headquarters, confiscating funds and documents.

German police forces raid the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation offices in Germany

- The decision of the German court was made at the end of lengthy legal proceedings that lasted over two years: In August 2002, the German Interior Minister issued a decree banning the activity of the foundation due to its affiliation with Hamas. In July 2003, the German court temporarily accepted the appeal submitted by the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation, claiming that it had not been sponsoring terrorist activity and that it posed no threat to the German people. By accepting the foundation's appeal, the German court repealed the Interior Minister's decree. Now, as mentioned earlier, the court upheld the decision of the government, stating that the financial assistance provided by the foundation to Hamas' civilian infrastructure—even if it could not be defined as direct funding of terrorist activities—was illegal and that the activities of the foundation should therefore be banned.

The implications of the German court's decision

- The German decision is an important legal progress in the struggle against Hamas' fundraising infrastructure in Europe and in Western countries in general. The decision could have judicial and operative repercussions in Denmark and Belgium as well, where the foundation still operates branches, and in other countries in which similar foundations operate:

- The meaning of the decision is that assistance to Hamas' civilian infrastructure (da'wa) is as illegal as the direct funding of terrorist activity. It is illegal because it provides assistance to promoting the illegitimate goals of the Hamas movement, being a terrorist organization both in the European and the American views. It should be noted that on the declarative level, the entire Hamas movement was included in the EU list of terrorist organizations in September 2003, but that has not so far been translated into operative conclusions in most countries.
- The German decision views—justly—the Hamas movement as a single terrorist entity. Thus, it refutes the claims occasionally heard in some of the European countries where Hamas foundations operate—notably the UK and France—that the assistance to civilian institutions is legitimate and that one can separate and distinguish between such assistance and assistance to Hamas' terrorist-operative system.

- The important precedent set by the German decision could therefore assist in promoting measures by other European countries against Hamas-affiliated foundations operating on their territories, and first and foremost against Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation branches in Belgium and in Denmark. Other than the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation and its various branches, other foundations that collect funds for Hamas operate in Europe even after the inclusion of Hamas in the EU list of terrorist organizations. Prominent among those foundations are INTERPAL, operating in the UK, Sanabil al-Aqsa in Sweden, ABSPP in Italy, the Palestine Foundation in Austria, ASP in Switzerland, and CBSP in France.
- It appears that the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation in Germany will not be able to appeal against the decision of the court to a higher authority, and therefore the decision marks the foundation's definitive dismantlement. However, the people behind the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation might examine “underground” ways to resume its operations—such as establishing a new foundation under a different name, as had been formerly done in other Western countries (the UK, Canada) after Hamas-affiliated foundations operating in those countries encountered legal or political difficulties.

Administrative Court—Press Release

December 3, 2004

Press Release no. 69/2004, Administrative Court, 6 A 10.02

Authorization to ban the Al-Aqsa association

The Petitioner is an association registered in the Federal Republic [of Germany] whose activities, according to its charter, include supporting social projects in Palestine. The association collects funds and transfers them to ostensibly social organizations in Palestine. In a decree issued in July 2002, the Federal Interior Ministry ruled that the activity of the Petitioner [i.e. association] served to encourage political, religious and other interests. In addition, it supported the activity of an organization [operating] outside the Federal Republic [i.e. Hamas] that instigates and supports killing of people and damage to property. The activity of the Petitioner is also aimed against the mutual understanding between peoples. The activity of the Petitioner was banned and it was dismantled.

The Administrative Court, which bears the responsibility of issuing the first and final ruling regarding the lawsuit, upheld the ban: The ban is compatible with the law, for at the time the ban was implemented, the Petitioner was acting against the mutual understanding between peoples, hence the Petitioner may be banned according to Section 3, Paragraph 1, Sentence 1 of the Associations Law, in accordance with Chapter 9, Paragraph GG 2. By its continuing and extensive financial support to welfare organizations that belong to Hamas, the Palestinian resistance movement, the Petitioner disrupted the understanding and peace between the Israeli and Palestinian peoples. In that, it concurrently supported Hamas’ violent activities against the Israeli people. While it is impossible to prove that the funds transferred to the welfare organizations were used (in part) indirectly by Hamas’ military activity, Hamas must be viewed as a single structure, with no distinction between its social work and [its activities in] the military sphere. The Senate is convinced that the Petitioner sympathizes with the goals of Hamas.

Verbot des Vereins "AL-AQSA" bestätigt

Der Kläger ist ein im Bundesgebiet eingetragener Verein, der nach seiner Satzung u.a. das Ziel verfolgt, in Palästina soziale Projekte zu unterstützen. Er sammelt Spenden und leitet diese an so genannte Sozialvereine in Palästina weiter. Mit Verfügung vom Juli 2002 stellte das Bundesministerium des Innern fest, dass die Tätigkeit des Klägers Gewaltanwendung zur Durchsetzung politischer, religiöser und sonstiger Belange unterstütze, befürworte und hervorrufe. Außerdem unterstütze er eine Vereinigung außerhalb des Bundesgebiets, die Anschläge gegen Personen und Sachen veranlasse und unterstütze. Die Tätigkeit des Klägers richte sich auch gegen den Gedanken der Völkerverständigung. Der Kläger wurde verboten und aufgelöst.

Das Bundesverwaltungsgericht, das über die gegen die Verbotsverfügung erhobene Klage erst- und letztinstanzlich zu entscheiden hatte, hat das Verbot bestätigt. Das Verbot ist rechtmäßig, weil sich der Kläger zu dem für die gerichtliche Beurteilung maßgeblichen Zeitpunkt des Erlasses der Verbotsverfügung gegen den Gedanken der Völkerverständigung richtete, sodass er nach § 3 Abs. 1 Satz 1 des Vereinsgesetzes (VereinsG), der mit Art. 9 Abs. 2 GG übereinstimmt, verboten werden kann. Der Kläger hat dadurch gegen die friedliche Verständigung des israelischen und des palästinensischen Volkes verstoßen, dass er über einen langen Zeitraum und in erheblichem Umfang in Palästina ansässige Sozialvereine, die der palästinensischen Widerstandsbewegung HAMAS zuzuordnen sind, finanziell unterstützt hat. Darin lag zugleich eine Unterstützung der von HAMAS gegenüber dem israelischen Volk ausgeübten Gewalttaten. Zwar ist nicht nachzuweisen, dass die den einschlägigen Sozialvereinen zugewandten Gelder unmittelbar der (teilweisen) Finanzierung der militärischen Aktivitäten von HAMAS dienen, HAMAS ist aber als ein einheitliches Gebilde anzusehen, bei dem auch die sozialen Aktivitäten nicht von dem militärischen Bereich geschieden werden können. Zur Überzeugung des Senats steht fest, dass sich der Kläger mit den Zielen von HAMAS identifiziert.

Appendix B

The Saudi WAMY organization, with the encouragement of the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation's defense attorney, rushes to the aid of the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation in its legal struggle against the German authorities, presenting a false image on the nature of the foundation<sup>3</sup>

3. A document seized in the offices of the Hamas-affiliated Jenin Charitable Society. WAMY's appeal was probably sent to other Hamas-affiliated charity committees in the West Bank and in the Gaza Strip.

- A fax seized in the offices of the Hamas-affiliated Jenin Charitable Society illustrates that in the spring of 2003, when the legal proceedings against the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation in Germany were underway, the Saudi WAMY organization, in cooperation with Hamas-affiliated institutions in the Palestinian Authority administered territories, rushed to the aid of the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation. WAMY, the World Assembly of Muslim Youth, is an international Saudi Muslim organization, most of whose assistance to the Palestinian Authority administered territories is transferred through Hamas' civilian infrastructure. The organization was declared illegal in Israel (2002).
- The document seized in the offices of the Jenin Charitable Society<sup>4</sup> makes it clear that WAMY, claiming for itself the title of a UN NGO, addressed the boards of its related charity committees (i.e. associations affiliated with Hamas' civilian infrastructure) in a request to enlist their support for the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation that was facing, according to the writer of the document, "vicious allegations" in German courts.

4. Seized on October 19, 2003.

- The document reveals that within this framework, WAMY sent (Hamas-affiliated) charity associations in the Palestinian Authority administered territories a letter written by the German defense attorney, asking them to send the letter to the German authorities (as if it were their own initiative). The letter contains a false claim, rejected by the court's decision of December 3, stating that the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation and the charity associations it supports only take part in humanitarian assistance to the poor and the needy and do not engage in any other activities. The state of affairs reflected in the document, traces of which can be detected in claims raised in other European countries, is therefore false; all of these committees, beyond their work in the social sphere (driven as it is by the desire to strengthen Hamas' status rather than by purely humanitarian purposes) are also engaged in terrorist-supportive activities, as the numerous seized documents demonstrate.

Attn: Members of the charity associations' boards of governors

[Greetings,]

As you know, [the activity of the] humanitarian Al-Aqsa association in Germany was banned by the German authorities, and the aforementioned organization is now barred from carrying out its activities. Therefore, the Al-Aqsa association prepared a [prosecution] case in order to initiate [legal] proceedings against the Ministry of Interior Affairs in the courts of the German federal government in Leipzig.

In our capacity as a human rights organization, we have taken the initiative and we are interested to help free the Al-Aqsa association from these vicious claims. Therefore, we ask you to reinforce our support [through your association by \[writing a letter\] which would include the following:](#)

To whom it may concern,

The association of _____, operating in the territories administered by the Palestinian Authority, in accordance with its rules and regulations, confirms the following:

5. The WAMY representative office in the Gaza Strip. Its precise address appears at the bottom margin of the document.

1. The association is registered at one of the official authorities—Israeli, Palestinian, Jordanian etc., under registration number _____, registration date _____.
2. Our association is subject to monitoring and supervision (annually or monthly) by the relevant parties, in all matters concerning its activities, including the amount of assistance it extends, the methods used to spend the funds, and the association's expense clauses.
3. All the assistance it [the association] receives from the Al-Aqsa association is channeled into purely humanitarian purposes.
4. Apart from humanitarian aid, such as assistance to the poor and the needy, the Al-Aqsa association does not engage in or support, to the best of our knowledge, any other activities<sup>6</sup>.

6. This claim creates an inaccurate image. Donations that were transferred to Hamas-affiliated charity committees are bound for the terrorist-supportive infrastructure; this can be extensively corroborated from the seized documents.

5. The Al-Aqsa association is a non-political, non-profit organization. It is a German humanitarian charity association for Palestine, and it does not set its sights on any political position nor seeks to achieve any political purpose, to the best of our knowledge.
6. The Al-Aqsa association is known to us as a patron of the poor and the needy, and all the grants and assistance it extends are bound for the poor and the needy.
7. The level of poverty, the need and the lack is the important and only one factor influencing our activities. In our activities, we do not prejudice any person at the expense of another based on his descent or ideological background.

Cooperation between the British INTERPAL fund and Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation offices in transferring funds to Hamas institutions, including funds bound for the terrorist-supportive infrastructure

What follows is an e-mail correspondence between INTERPAL and the Hamis-affiliated Hebron Islamic Charitable Society. The correspondence refers to relying upon a report that was approved by the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation in Holland. The correspondence ends with the sentence: "For inquiries or information requests, contact us at INTERPAL's [telephone?] number". This—and other documents as well—are testimony that INTERPAL serves as a mediator of a sort between the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation in Holland (and other foundations that collect donations for Hamas' institutions) and the Hebron Islamic Charitable Society (and other Hamas-affiliated charity organizations in the Palestinian Authority administered territories).

A seized document describing the allocation of charity funds received from various foundations (including the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation) in Germany, Holland, Belgium and Denmark to Hamas' Al-Islah Charitable Society in Bethlehem. The funds are allocated through the British Hamas-affiliated INTERPAL fund, and some of the funds are bound for Hamas' terrorist-supportive infrastructure

Outline

- The following is a seized document describing the allocation of funds by INTERPAL to the Al-Islah Charitable Society in Bethlehem. The Al-Islah Charitable Society is one of Hamas' largest and most prominent charity associations in the West Bank, operating several branches throughout the West Bank, including a branch in Bethlehem.
- Alongside its extensive social work, the Al-Islah society is also involved in terrorist-supportive activity, which includes providing financial support to families of shahids ("martyrs"). Thus, for example, a seized document found among the files of the society's Bethlehem office describes the transfer of financial grants to families of martyrs, including terrorist operatives from all the terrorist organizations (for further details, refer to the information bulletin on the INTERPAL fund, available on the Intelligence and Terrorism Information Center website: www.intelligence.org.il).

Appendix D

Transfer of funds from the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation and its various branches to the Orphan Care Society in Bethlehem, a Hamas institution responsible, among other things, for raising funds for the terrorist-supportive infrastructure.

Characteristics of the Orphan Care Society

- The Orphan Care Society is a Hamas institution in Bethlehem that was established in 1997. Alongside its extensive humanitarian activity, the society comprises part of Hamas' terrorist-supportive infrastructure and serves the movement as a channel for raising funds. The heads of the society are well-known Hamas activists and the society works in cooperation with additional Hamas institutions in the West Bank, such as the Hebron Islamic Charitable Society. Being a Hamas institution, it was declared an illegal organization in Israel in 2002.

- A seized document captured in the Palestinian Preventive Security headquarters in the course of Operation Defensive Shield (April 2002) outlines the Hamas institutions in the Bethlehem area (a copy of the document appears below). In that document, Lt. Col. Majdi al-Atari notes that the Orphan Care Society tends to the needs of orphans as well as of children of martyrs and detained Hamas members. The governing board of the society, according to that document, is composed entirely of Hamas activists in Bethlehem, prominent among whom is Dr. Ghassan Harmas, considered to be the Hamas political leader in Bethlehem.

- Dr. Ghassan 'Issa Mahmoud Harmas, also known as Abu Tayyib, is the director of the Orphan Care Society and the top figure among the Hamas leadership in Bethlehem. Born in 1956, he is a resident of Bethlehem, holds a university degree (Islamic Law) and serves as a lecturer of Islamic Law. One of those deported to the Lebanese border town of Marj al-Zuhoor, he was arrested in the past (2002) by the Israeli security forces and was released. He continues to direct the society to this day.

The funding of the Orphan Care Society

- The society is generously funded by radical Islamic foundations and Hamas' designated foundations abroad, and it is considered to be the most financially well-off association in Bethlehem. According to seized documents (from 2002 and 2004), the society receives financial assistance from the Union of Good and Hamas' goal-oriented foundations, including the British INTERPAL fund and the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation in Germany, Holland, Belgium and Denmark. In addition, according to the seized documents, the society received financial assistance from radical Islamic foundations such as Saudi Arabia's WAMY.

Seized documents on the relations of the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation and its various branches with the Orphan Care Society in Bethlehem

Our brothers in the Orphan Care Society, Bethlehem

May Allah keep them and his mercy be upon them

[Greetings]

Subject: Orphans' support funds allocation for the year 2002

You are well aware of the situation of the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation in Germany. It has been closed down with all its property confiscated. The appeal over this decision is currently underway in the German court and we plead Allah to restore the situation to its former state.

In order to continue to do so [i.e. restoring the situation to its former state], I ask you to report to us on the conclusions recently reached on the matter of the orphans' support funds for the year 2002, of which you were informed in writing. In addition, I ask you to send a list of the orphans who receive support funds from the institution, with the following items:

Name of orphan

Date of birth

Cause of parent's death according to the death certificate<sup>10</sup>

[Name of the] family provider

This could help in the proceedings of the trial and provide evidence as to how unfounded the accusations directed against the institution are. Please send us the list by e-mail to al-aqsa@skynet.be, the address of the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation in Belgium<sup>11</sup>. Please send the original copy by mail to the following address:

El-Hajjaji Mohamed
Rue des Sorbiers 89
4800 Verviers
Belgium

[Regards,]

Your brother,
Mahmoud Amru [director of the Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation branch in Germany]

10. The cause of the parent's death makes it possible to tell whether the child in question is the child of a martyr who died in the course of the violent confrontation with Israel, or an “ordinary” orphan.

11. Owing to the ban on the foundation's activity in Germany, it maintained its correspondence through the Belgium branch.

From: The Al-Aqsa Charitable Foundation [ Belgium]

To the Orphan Care Society— Bethlehem

Subject: Sending letters from the orphans to their benefactors

Date: December 3, 2002

[Greetings]

For our institution to be able to carry out its duties to the best of our abilities and in order to ensure, Allah willing, the continued financial support to the listed orphans by their benefactors, the latter must be assured that their funds are managed properly. Therefore, we are in real need of reports from the orphans or their relatives to their benefactors regarding their financial situation since they first started receiving the support funds up until now, on the first available opportunity.

Attached are tables of the names of the orphans in question. Please include the following details in the report:

Have the support funds been received in full

Health situation

School situation

Living conditions

General social situation

[A letter of] gratitude to the benefactors for their support

We at the [Al-Aqsa] institution will provide for these reports to arrive to the benefactors and will work to ensure that the support funds continue. If the reports do not arrive within the indicated period of time (a month from today), the institution will consider reassigning the support funds to one of the other orphans on the long waiting list.

[Regards]
